knowledge-sharing among general people and scientific community. Recent scenario is to capturing our mind wealth by other countries and other persons. This is the right time to motivate the young minds to enhance their innovative mind and to properly protect for themselves and indirectly showing our strength to other countries.

India is one of the mega biodiversity nations. It possesses all types of biodiversity both in plants as well as in animal kingdoms, in which, Cultural Biodiversity is one among them. Every part of India has different varieties of ancient places, foods, costumes and styles, medicines and also methods of traditional treatments against so many diseases by traditional healers.

The program is aimed to develop the knowledge on Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) for the innovation and the knowledge of biotechnology in biodiversity and biological research such as drug development, biomedical techniques and so on. IPR is a valuable tool to protect everyone from pilfering the knowledge and ideas.

"If we did not have a patent system, it would be irresponsible, on the basis of our present knowledge of its economic consequences, to recommend instituting one. But since we have had a patent system for a long time, it would be irresponsible, on the basis of our present knowledge, to recommend abolishing it."
